[4] SDG4: Quality Education

[4.3.3] Does your university as a body educational host events at university that are open to the general public: executive education programmes (this refers to short courses for people who are not attending the university; this specifically excludes courses like MBA) and/or vocational training?

Description: Imam Alkadhim University College hosts various educational programs for people who are not attending the university:

1. The Ministry of Higher Education and Scientific Research has announced the adoption of the "Guide to Modern Teaching and Learning Methods," marking a significant academic achievement for Al-Imam Al-Kadhum College. This accomplishment comes after intensive efforts spanning over six months, supervised by a specialized committee in teaching methodologies comprising an elite group of academics from the college who authored the book. The Ministry of Higher Education and Scientific Research subsequently circulated the guide to Iraqi universities to be officially adopted. The guide encompasses teaching strategies and techniques, instructional skills, e-learning and blended learning, as well as measurement and evaluation. It emphasizes that the guide was developed according to a precise plan to ensure the fulfillment of modern educational objectives, serving as an approved reference to support university instruction and enhance teaching skills across Iraqi academic institutions.

2. The personal skills development training course has kicked off for graduates from any university or college, organized by the Rehabilitation, Employment, and Follow-up Division in cooperation with the Continuing Education Center at Al-Imam Al-Kadhum College. The course aims to enhance the programming capabilities and personal skills of students and graduates to keep pace with labor market demands, while elevating the college's outcomes by equipping participants with added competencies that prepare them to face future challenges.

3. On Sunday, November 23, 2025, a specialized training course was launched to develop the skills of secondary school history teachers. The course is organized by the Continuing Education Center at Al-Imam Al-Kadhum University College for Islamic Sciences, in cooperation with the Ministry of Education / General Directorate of Education in Baghdad / Department of Preparation and Training. Presented by an elite group of specialized faculty members from the college, the course covers multiple key areas, including modern teaching methods, learning and teaching theories, educational communication, achievement testing, and teaching quality, in addition to various stages of Islamic history. The course aims to enhance teachers' capabilities in adopting innovative instructional strategies, foster critical and analytical thinking skills among students, and encourage the use of modern educational aids to deliver scientific content in an engaging and attractive manner.

4. The Student Activities Division at Al-Imam Al-Kadhum College announces the launch of its 4th Summer Development Course, titled "The Problem of Human Development and the Quranic Remedy". The course will be held in person from July 1, 2025, to September 1, 2025, at the headquarters of Al-Imam Al-Kadhum College in Baghdad. It will feature key modules aimed at refining student character and enhancing their religious and psychological awareness. The college invites students from all disciplines to join this unique educational experience—which merges science with spirituality—by registering their details with the Student Activities Division.

5. The kindergarten teacher skills development course, organized by the Continuing Education Center in cooperation with the Department of Kindergarten and Special Education, has concluded at Al-Imam Al-Kadhum College with the participation of teachers from various Iraqi kindergartens. The course covered several educational and practical areas, most notably: early childhood teaching strategies, performance evaluation methods, instilling noble religious values, using modern technology in education, and learning through play and fun. It aimed to enhance the teachers' efficiency in dealing with early childhood stages. This course comes as part of a series of educational programs implemented by the college to spread knowledge, improve the quality of education, and contribute to human development on sound scientific and educational foundations.
